The Plan de Flores Woodworking school is out for the holidays and will resume in Feb. 2011. Most of the students have gone home to spend the holidays with their families, those with no families will spend the time with Marianna and Alfredito and their family.

Plan de Flores Deaf School reports: During the Christmas holidays all children with disabilities were to live with their relatives and family. At home we're just my family. The children return to the Special School on February 10 and classes begin on February 15. I've been calling some of the children who live more closer to come to get the Christmas gift sent to them but some will receive it until they return to their classes because they live too far away from to Plan de Flores. We are happy because the furniture will be ready for the new year of classes and will be of great help for the children. Thank you very much for everything we love you. Mariana
